The Algilez Phrase Book

This Phrase Book contains both a variety of phrases such that a tourist might need (e.g. travelling and booking into hotels etc) plus additional material for general conversations.
As well as the phrases themselves, the intention is to try and cover as many as possible of the grammatical and tense uses that are likely to regularly occur in the language.

Translations:
Like most translations, the Algilez version may appear to say something slightly different to the English version but this is really just a case of translating the meaning rather than the words themselves. Remember also that the different word order of Algilez will often mean that word by word translations won't make sense and that you will probably need to translate complete phrases or sentences.
Sometimes there are alternative translations. The fuller ones are included to help understand the full response, the shorter ones being perfectly acceptable if the context is clear. Sometimes verbs (or other grammatical functions) are not always necessary – Algilez is very flexible!
[Word in square brackets] are usually the unsaid words, often taken for granted in greetings or questions. They are shown to give the full grammatical information but can be omitted from Algilez in the same way as English.
E.g. [I wish you a] Good morning – [𝑀𝜀 𝜓𝜄𝑓𝜀𝑧 𝑦𝜇] 𐑜𐑫𐑛 𐑴𐑭𐑯.

Algilez Pronunciation:
Vowels:- 'ɹ' as in far, 'ɤ' as in fort, 'ʌ' as in cut, 'ɛ' as in bet, 'ɨ' as in feel, 'ɒ' as in pop, 'ʉ' as in pool. Consonants: 'ȼ' as in church, 'ɋ' as in get, 'ɵ' as in three, 'ʃ' as in ship, all others as in English. However it is best to listen to the sound files on the Algilez web site to hear the pronunciation. Please see www.algilez.com/Algilez Alphabet & Font.pdf
